THIRTY-SIXTH YEAR

U. S. PERMITS SALE OF RUM

OSGOOD HIT BY OUSTER APPEAL

Commission Asked To Employ Men at Less Salary—Referendum on Continuance of Commission Manager Government Is Proposed

Petitions asking the city commission to discharge City Manager Clarence A. Bingham and Chief of Police Thomas A. Lanker were circulated about Lima Wednesday. A vote on a change in the form of government is also demanded.

More than 100 copies of the paper were placed in advantageous places about the city and are being signed by citizens, it is stated.

MOVEMENT "SWEEPING CITY" PRINCIPAL PETITIONER SAYS

The petition was prepared Tuesday night by Andrew J. Blank, 744 N. Main-st., he stated.

"The movement is sweeping the city like wild-fire," Blank declared Wednesday. One copy had been signed by 70 tax payers before noon, Blank said.

In addition to requesting the discharge of Bingham and Lanker, the petition asks that the several city jobs held by Harry X. Osgood be distributed among a number of tax payers, who are families to support.

The petition reads as follows:

CITIZENS PETITION

"To the board of Commissioners of the city of Lima,

"We, the undersigned, legal voters of the said city of Lima, Ohio, respectfully request and petition your honorable board of City Commissioners, that you will take the necessary steps at once to discharge your City Manager, Clarence A. Bingham, and discharge also your Police Chief, Thomas A. Lanker, and that you let men of our own city, at a more reasonable salary.

"Your petitioners further request that the positions given and now held by Harry X. Osgood, be divided and given to men who have families to support.

"Your petitioners further request and hereby make demand that you call an election at the earliest possible date for the purpose of allowing the citizens of said city of Lima, Ohio, to vote on the continuance or annulment of the present form of government and to substitute another therefor."

SCALED PROTEST

Blank is an employee of the Econ & Gas Co. He stated Wednesday that he is heading a group of citizens and taxpayers in the movement.

"This is a protest against the manner in which the city is being run," Blank said. "From the way people are signing up, I imagine that it is a popular move."

"I wrote the petition myself, after I had secured good legal advice, it is all according to law, and there is a chance for a slip-up, or it being thrown out on a technicality. If we get enough signers, a vote will be granted."

Rumors of a petition asking the removal of the city commission and the removal of Bingham and Lanker as factors in Lima's civic life have been heard for weeks past, it is noted.

The first petitions, however, were taken out Tuesday night. News of the almost insolvent condition of the city's sinking fund hastened action, Blank indicated.

OFFICIALS SURPRISED

Members of the city commission were surprised when told of the existence of the petition. They refused to indicate what action they will take, if it is presented to them, whether Bingham and Lanker will be ousted if sufficient public sentiment develops.

"It is the first I've heard of it," said Commissioner John Harley. "I suppose it will be ready to present soon."

Commissioner Earl Rohn said he had heard rumors of dissatisfaction, but didn't know the movement had gone so far.

"I don't believe it will gather much force," was the opinion of E. J. Jones.

Manager Clarence A. Bingham, who was brought to Lima from Wadsworth, N. Y., to handle the reins of government, under the commission's direction, expressed the opinion that "bootleggers are backing the movement."

LIMA TO BOOTLEGGERS

"I have heard that they have a considerable fund," he said. "I heard about this last week."

Bingham said that this is the first time in his career as a city manager.

ACT TO NULLIFY COURT URGED

Constitutional Amendment Proposed by La Follette

ATTACKS DECISION ON LABOR

Wisconsin Senator Addresses Federation Convention

(By LAWRENCE MARTIN)
OHIO NATIONAL GUARD ARMORY, CINCINNATI—(United Press) Asserting that the supreme court of the United States is now "the actual ruler of the American people," Senator La Follette, in a speech to the American Federation of Labor convention today proposed the passage of constitutional amendment giving congress the right to nullify any decision of the high tribunal knocking out a law by re-enacting the measure.

La Follette was greeted with a storm of cheers, yells and hand-clapping that lasted several minutes. Delegates stood on chairs, pounded tables and shouted at the top of their voices. The ovation given him was the most dramatic and stirring moment of the convention thus far.

The senator declared, "I have assumed power over the laws and public policies of the country, which the framers of the constitution never intended it should have. I believe this question of judicial usurpation is now the supreme issue," La Follette declared in his speech, which was full of attacks on the court for its decisions hostile to labor.

La Follette indicated that he would seek to enlist the support of the progressives, the farmer and the labor forces for his amendment. He claimed it was in accordance with the Rooseveltian principle of 1912 for the recall of judges' decisions. Popular election of federal judges, a plan long advocated by union labor, will not remedy the situation, he said.

La Follette also proposed that no federal judge except those on the supreme bench be allowed to declare a law unconstitutional. He pointed out that the president, by the exercise of his veto power, cannot nullify a law of congress if two-thirds of both houses are opposed to his views and that the nine men on the supreme court should have no power to knock out a law that the majority of the people, speaking thru their representatives, want.

La Follette denounced the court bitterly for its decision that the child labor laws were unconstitutional and for its recent holding in the Coronado case that labor unions can be sued for damages.

Immediate action is expected under the work of estimating the assessments against the property owners will be completed in time to prevent suspension of interest payments on $1,113,000 of the power bonds, it is hoped.

As outlined in The Lima News, interest payments amounting to more than $30,000 will be due within the next six months and there is but $3,700 in the fund to meet them. A safety fund of more than $20,000 will be available, however, and will remove all immediate danger, it is believed.

MINES ATTACKED

Crowd Seizes Coal and Demands Operations Cease

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. — (Associated Press) — A crowd estimated at 400 persons left here today in automobiles after announcing their intention of closing every coal mine in operation between Terre Haute and Brazil, ten miles east of here.

The first stop made by the party was at the Jones mine near Staunton, Ind., where two trucks loaded with coal were seized and the contents dumped into the road, according to reports received here.

Two guards at the Jones mines were disarmed by the men when they entered the mine and one of the employees was roughly handled when he refused to quit work, according to the report.

The men also visited the Robert Hughes mine, five miles from Terre Haute, but the shaft was found to be deserted and the crowd moved on. The party was reported to be proceeding toward the McCullough and Gorton mine.

STRAUBAT LAUNCHED

GALLIPOLE, Ohio. The first all-steel packet steamboat built on the Ohio river for local trade, was launched at the boat yards at Point Pleasant, W. Va., near here today for the Green, line of Cincinnati. The boat will run in the Cincinnati-Huntington, W. Va., trade.

ST. MARYS — August W. Schierbeck, service director, suffered minor injuries when he fell from the top of a ladder while picking cherries. He lost his balance when a small limb gave way under his grasp.

FIEND'S VICTIM

MISS ALICE MALLET

STORMING OF JAIL LED BY WOMAN

Large Mob Attempts to Lynch Michigan Prisoner

CONFESSED MALLET SLAYER

Murderer Saved By Officials Spiriting Him Away

JACKSON, Mich. — (Associated Press) — Use of tear gas to repel the advances of more than a thousand angry citizens of Jackson who sought to take George Straub, confessed slayer of Miss Alice Mallett, from the custody of the sheriff, is responsible for Straub's safety in an unnamed Michigan city today.

The prisoner, disguised as a city fireman, marched thru the ranks of the crowd that sought his life last night and was spirited out of Jackson several hours before it was learned he had left the jail.

Early today the city was quiet with several units of national guardsmen, police reserves and state police officers assisting the local authorities in guarding against any recurrence of disorder.

Only the officials know the whereabouts of the prisoner and efforts of leaders of last night's attempt at lynching were abandoned this morning after they failed to locate Straub in nearby cities.

PRISONER DEMANDED

In the crowd that stormed the county jail were more than 100 women. One of the leaders of the movement was an aged, white-haired woman who first pleaded with officers to deliver the prisoner, then demanded it, and finally was at the head of several rushes of the crowd toward the jail doors.

Each time the situation grew threatening officers resorted to the use of gas bombs, which scattered the crowds.

Announcement of Straub's confession came as citizens were beginning to chafe at delay in running down the slayer. The confession was made Monday night but not announced until 24 hours later, the officials in the meantime carefully checking up the prisoner's story and formally charging him with murder.

RAIL RATES CUT

Slash on Ford's Road Allowed by Commission

WASHINGTON — (Associated Press) — Proposals of Henry Ford to reduce coal rates on his railroad, the Detroit, Toledo and Ironton railway, which originally were suspended by the interstate commerce commission, were allowed to go into effect today under a final decision of the commission.

Revised schedules were filed by the Detroit, Toledo and Ironton with the commission last April 1, proposing rate changes which would have reduced freights on coal from 30 to 10 cents per ton. The commission on the protest of various competing mine operators on other railroads ordered the schedules held up to await investigation but today ruled that the new schedules might be put into effect July 1.

"BAR GUARANTEED SHIP PATRONS"

Uncle Sam's Vessels Wettest on Ocean, A. A. Busch Says

MATER PUT UP TO HARDING

Writer Declares Country's Constitution Violated

ST. LOUIS — (Associated Press) — Charging the United States is "incomparably the biggest bootlegger in the world," a letter written by August A. Busch, president of Anheuser Busch Inc., while en route to Europe aboard the steamship George Washington, and which has been forwarded to President Harding, was made public here today, together with an accompanying letter by Adolphus Busch III, his son.

A third letter by Anheuser Busch Inc., addressed to members of congress, requests an investigation of the enforcement department of the government in relation to the prohibition act.

WETTEST ON OCEAN

The letter of Augustus A. Busch, addressed to his associates, says in part: "We are now approaching the coast of France. As this vessel is operated by the United States shipping board I am amazed to learn that the shipping board vessels are the 'wettest on the ocean.'"

"I learn that passage on these ships has been sold with a positive money back guarantee that the bars for the sale of intoxicating liquors will be thrown open as soon as they pass outside the three mile coast line."

"This makes the United States incomparably the biggest bootlegger in the world."

"REASONS FOR ACTION"

"There are two reasons which I believe should impel us to bring this information to the attention of the president: the chief executive is charged with the duty of defending the constitution and taking care that the laws are faithfully executed and should be informed of this fact."

As manufacturers of legal products we have been forced for more than two years to meet unfair and unlawful competition in practically every town and city in the United States. For the United States to set aside its constitution and laws in the operation of its own business enterprises, increases our difficulties many fold because it encourages violators of the law to renewed and greater activity.

"VIOLATION PERMITTED"

"I understand that the shipping board has brought to the notice of high officials of the government the fact that it could not compete on the high seas with the ships of other nations and obey the constitution and the Volstead act. And either by direct or indirect means the shipping board is permitted to do in the dark that which it is illegal to do — in order that it may make money."

"We should submit to the president that the government's toleration of the violation of the law by the shipping board is proof that prohibition laws as now written are either impractical and non-enforceable, or are being disregarded deliberately."

"The fact that citizens of the United States would not buy passage upon ships of the United States so long as the Volstead act was operative upon these ships gives us a real sentiment of a considerable part of the American people with respect to prohibition and we believe that a great majority desire a modification of the Volstead act."

"The letter of Adolphus Busch III which accompanied the letter of his father to the president, written from St. Louis under date of June 8, says in part:

"I am transmitting herewith a letter we have just received from my father, August A. Busch, president of Anheuser Busch Inc., written on board the United States steamship George Washington. Kindly note that he expresses astonishment that the prohibition laws of the United States are violated openly upon steamships owned by the United States and flying the United States flag. A copy of the wine list enumerating intoxicating liquors of every character is enclosed for your information."

"LIQUOR ADVERTISED"

"Because it is axiomatic that American ships wherever they float

SERVING LIQUOR IS ADMITTED

Reported Traffic Aboard American Steamers Confirmed By Chairman Lasker of Shipping Board— Approved From Legal and Financial Standpoint, He Says

WASHINGTON.—(Associated Press).—The shipping board holds that "neither the Volstead act nor the eighteenth amendment apply to American ships outside the three mile limit, Chairman Lasker declared today in a letter to Adolphus Busch, III, vice-president of the Anheuser Busch Brewery Company of St. Louis. Confirming reports that alcoholic drinks were being served on American ships at sea, Mr. Lasker asserted that the shipping board had approved this custom "both from the standpoint of legal right and from the standpoint of the life and security of our National merchant marine."

"The shipping board has permitted and will continue to permit the serving of liquor on its ships," he continued, "so long as foreign flagships are allowed to enter and depart from our shores, exercising that privilege."

While it was true, Mr. Lasker said, that an assistant attorney general, "in the prior administration," had held that the prohibition laws were effective on American shipping wherever operated, the present general counsel of the shipping board, his two assistants and the chairman himself were convinced that such an opinion was not soundly based and had approved the inclusion of wine lists as regular equipment of boats operated under the board's supervision, for use, however, only beyond the jurisdictional coastal line.

LIQUOR DECLARED SERVED ABOARD SHIPS DURING WILSON ADMINISTRATION

"The prior chairman (of the board) had issued orders that the Palmer opinion must be respected," Mr. Lasker said, "but it is true that in fact during the Wilson administration insofar as the shipping board operated passenger ships liquor was served."

"Having thus disposed of your contention that we are breaking the law, let me refer to the practical side of what is involved."

"There is a vital bill pending before congress now providing aid for American shipping which if enacted into law stamps the belief of America (as expressed thru its legislative body) that we have reached that point in our national life where an established merchant marine is essential for our prosperity in times of peace and our protection in times of war."

"No type of ship is so essential for either of these major purposes as the fast passenger and combination passenger and cargo ships. Of this type Great Britain has 250, whereas we have but fifty; when speed and age are considered, the factor is even greater in favor of Great Britain."

BARS ARE LET DOWN TO MEET STRONG COMPETITION AT SEA

"So long as Great Britain, Japan, France, Germany and other maritime nations continue to serve liquors to American passengers I am ashamed to state that my experience leads me to believe there is a sufficient number of Americans without proper pride in their own flagships, who would divert their trade to the foreign flags to the extent that the competition would be from a profit operating standpoint very heavily against the American ship."

"If the sale of liquor be prohibited on all boats entering or departing from American ports there is no voice in the shipping board that would be raised in protest."

Mr. Busch attached to his letter to the president the copy of an editorial printed in the Chicago Tribune of May 6, 1922, "following a visit to the editorial offices by an official of the United States shipping board."

Declaring there was an insinuation that the editorial had been "inspired by that visit," Mr. Lasker said:

"I was the official who visited the Tribune on May 5th, and I wish to record my emphatic denial that in any way knew before or at the time of my visit the views of the editors of the Tribune on this subject. I did not discuss the subject of prohibition with the editors of the Tribune at that visit or at any other time before or since. The fact is that I had no more advance knowledge than

FLAG POLE FOR FAUROT ELKS GIFT TO COUNTY

Will Be Dedicated Sunday When Patriotic Orders Honor
Stars and Stripes — Parade of War Veterans—Program Is Announced

Flag Day will mean more to Lima in the years to come as a result of the erection of a 50-foot flag pole in Faurot Park.

This flag pole is the gift of the Lima Elks club to the people of Allen-co and will be dedicated at their Flag Day services, Sunday. It will be set in a solid cement foundation. A brass plate will explain how it came to be erected.

Two flags will accompany the flag pole. It is the desire of the Elks to have the flag flying every day this summer. When the first flag wears out it will be replaced by the other.

An open space just east of the bear pit in Faurot park has been selected as the site for the pole. Arrangements have been made to plant a flower bed at its base and to otherwise decorate the field permanently.

Dedication services will be held Sunday following the address by John G. Price, attorney general. There will be formal guard mount and retreat by members of local military companies. They will be assisted by the Elks Hussar band and the American Legion drum corps.

PLANS NEAR COMPLETION.

Preparations for the Elks Flag Day parade and program at Faurot park are nearing completion. The parade personnel will be announced later in the week.

Aids assigned to Colonel John Harley, marshal, are Captain C. D. Gamble, Major Frank Hume, Captain Carl Crites, Major John Blatterberg and Captain Cal Selfridge.

G. A. R. veterans are rallying to the Flag Day celebration with unbounded enthusiasm and energy. They are planning to participate in the parade and have started a 100 percent attendance campaign.

Cards are being mailed to each veteran inviting him to be in the parade. Automobiles are being provided to take the G. A. R. veterans from their homes to the park and return.

The program for the day will be as follows: Bugle calls by the American Legion drum corps; Elks Hussar band; "Soldiers Chorus" by the Elks Male Chorus; introductory exercises by officers of the lodge; Prayer by the chaplain; "History of the Flag" by J. W. Bond; "Altar Service" by officers of the lodge; "Auld Lang Syne" by the male chorus, and America sung by the audience.

PRICE TO SPEAK

Immediately following the ceremonies Attorney General John G. Price will deliver the address.

Price will deliver the address of the day. He will speak from the band stand and his voice will be easily heard by the thousands who are expected to be present.

Military ceremonies will follow the address by Price and a band concert will conclude the activities of the day.

FISHING SEASON OPENS FRIDAY

Large Numbers of Bass Reported in Nearby Reservoirs

Anglers are happy! Bass may be caught on June 15. The spawning season will end June 15. There is said to be many more bass at the reservoirs and inland lakes this year than for some seasons.

Bass are said to spawn better when water is high. The young fry is separated from the mother fish after it is hatched.

Ora Hinton, Anglaise county resident, says mallard ducks and teal were seen recently. The teal had twelve young ones and was lying near Lake St. Marys.

Hatching of these tows is said to be largely due to the high stage of the water, which has been maintained all spring because of the heavy rains.

TRIBUTE TO AMERICA

By ABBA HILLEL SILVER

God built Him a continent of glory and filled it with treasures untold;
He carpeted it with soft-rolling prairies and columned it with thundering mountains;
He studded it with sweet-flowing fountains and traced it with long-winding streams;

He planted it with deep-shadowed forests and filled them with song.
Then He called unto a thousand peoples and summoned the bravest among them.
They came from the ends of the earth, each bearing a gift and a hope.
The glow of adventure was in their eyes and in their hearts the glory of hope.
And out of the bounty of earth and the labor of men, out of the longing of hearts and the prayer of souls, out of the memory of ages and hopes of the world, God fashioned a nation in love, blessed it with a purpose sublime—and called it

VETERAN TAKEN TO U. S. HOSPITAL

Soldier Found Ill is Removed to Marion, Ind.

Nine years of wandering and soldier life came to a close, Wednesday, for Fred Johnson, 26, veteran of the world war picked up by police at the Cadillac hotel apparently in an impaired mental condition. Police Captain George Strick left with him for Marion, Ind., where he was entered in a federal hospital.

Johnson is a native of Norway. He served with the 16th U. S. Infantry and received a number of bayonet wounds about the head in overseas service. A livid scar across the left side of his neck and face shows that his head was half cut off.

He was placed in the hospital thru efforts of Dr. C. D. Gamble, local examining physician under the World War Veterans' bureau.

are American territory and under the jurisdiction of the laws of the United States, the government's liquor policy with respect to the ships of the United States shipping board constitute a violation of the constitution and the Volstead act in at least three important respects:

"As American territory follows the flag it is a violation of the constitution and the enforcement act for the government to sell intoxicating liquors or permit their sale on board any ship of the United States anywhere in the world.

"It is a violation of the constitution and the law for the government ships to transport intoxicating liquors within the three mile coast line.

"It is a violation of the law for a government ship to possess intoxicating liquor within the three mile coast line.

"We are reliably informed that the advertisement of the United States lines published in European newspapers announced 'choice wines and liquors, on ships of the United States.'

"We are also reliably informed that during all the time that the government has been violating the prohibition laws it has had public figures touring the country for the special purpose of preaching respect for the prohibition laws to the American people.

"We are enclosing what appears to be a government inspired newspaper editorial making a plea for the continued violation of the prohibition laws on board United States ships. We had authoritative information the day before this editorial was published that it was to appear the following day.

"The government's disregard of the prohibition law and its policy of inspiring editorial support of the exemption of one of its business enterprises from the operation of the law on the one hand, and its feeble attempt to enforce it and the employment of skilled orators to counsel respect for the law on the other hand, appears to be most inconsistent."

The letter of the Anheuser Busch Inc., to members of congress inviting their aid in the repeal of the shipping board steamers, requests congressional inquiry into the conditions regarding the enforcement of the prohibition act. The letter says in part:

"We have repeatedly brought to the notice of the congress of the United States and the administrative officials the fact that the prohibition law is so loosely enforced as to invite its violation and that under these conditions the manufacturers of lawful products are being driven out of business."

"When the government of the United States permits one of its departments to violate the prohibition law on the most extensive scale in the world, it helps create a condition which aggravates the difficulties of those manufacturers who have spent millions of dollars to convert their properties for the production of lawful products and who, as a matter of good citizenship, have obeyed the law."

The letter further says that the government in violating its own law sets an example of "hypocrisy, unparalleled in the history of the republic."

any other reader of the Tribune that it was going to publish such an editorial.

BLOW AIMED AT BUSCH.

"Your mean insinuation regarding uncorruptible officials and editors reflects on you alone."

"Your letter to the president and the letter from your father which you attached thereto have on their face been written entirely with a view to their effect on the public when published and in an attempt to insure their publication I am informed that you have sent printed copies of your letters to the press of America."

"Wherefore, my reply to you is not merely intended for you, but is also written with a view to public rejoinder."

"I believe you to be thoroughly selfish and that you are acting in the hope of creating a public revolt against prohibition so that you may again revive the sale of your liquors, utterly regardless of how you might hurt the American merchant marine in your effort to create a situation to benefit your brewery."

"It is of course notorious that the Adolphus Busch who founded your brewery was possibly the Kaiser's closest friend in America and that your family for many years has maintained a castle in Germany; your action in any event will not displease your German friends whose greatest hope of a restored German merchant marine, is in a hurt to America's new born merchant marine."

"I refer to these extraneous facts not in resentment, but that it may be made clear that in my opinion you do not come before the bar of public opinion with clean hands."

LEGAL OPINION GIVEN

Mr. Lasker made public at the same time the text of an opinion just rendered to him by Elmer Schlessinger, general counsel of the shipping board, upholding anew the legality of the serving of liquor on American ships at sea.

The opinion cited numerous cases to show that American ships outside the three mile limit could not be considered within the jurisdiction of the United States government.

"An effort to discredit prohibition," was the interpretation placed on the Busch letters by Wayne E. Wheeler, general counsel for the Anti-Saloon League.

"I hold no brief for the shipping board in this controversy," Mr. Wheeler said today. "It is able to take care of itself. Our attitude with reference to the sale of liquor on ships within the jurisdiction of the United States has been clear cut and consistent ever since the law went into effect. We contended before the justice department that it was illegal to transport or possess liquor on any ship within the jurisdiction of the United States. The department and the

GIVES 'DON'T'S' FOR BABY'S HEALTH

Sutter Urges Extreme Care For Youngsters During Summer

MOST DANGEROUS SEASON

Prepares Card of Advice for Mothers of Infants

Care of infants during the summer months is the problem facing the women of the county at the present time, according to advices from the Allen-co District board of health. Measures are being taken by the board to instruct mothers in the best manner to care for their infant children during the warm season. The high death rate among infants less than a year of age, Dr. John J. Sutter, county health commissioner, says, is leading to serious consideration of the problem. From 10 to 20 children less than a year of age, out of every hundred, die every year, he pointed out. The majority of the deaths, the doctor declared, occur during the summer.

BORN HEALTHY
"Most children are born with healthy bodies, and if cared for properly will safely pass this time of danger," Sutter says. "Extreme heat, improper and improper food are the chief causes of sickness and death of many babies, especially hot-bed babies."

"The most loving and a mother can do is to nurse her baby. When the baby nurses it not only gets the best food, but it is less liable to many diseases, such as summer complaint, convulsions and tuberculosis. Nearly every mother can nurse her baby during the first three or four months of its life, and if she can nurse it for ten months, so much the better."

"It is easier, better and cheaper to prevent than to cure disease," Sutter says.

The county health commissioner has prepared a list of "don'ts" which he urges every mother to cut from the newspaper and hang where she can see them often. Sutter's "Don'ts" for baby's health are as follows:

- FOR BABY'S HEALTH
Don't feed the baby too often or too much. Not oftener than every three or four hours.
Don't pick him up every time he cries.
Don't excite him immediately after feeding.
Don't feed him at irregular intervals.
Don't let him stay up late at night.
Don't over-dress the baby in hot weather. Diaper and thin dress are sufficient.
Don't fail to provide well ventilated living and sleeping rooms.
Don't neglect the baby's daily tepid bath.
Don't fail to keep him in the outdoor air as much as possible, avoiding unnecessary exposure to the sun and drafts.
Don't let him go more than an hour or two, when awake, without water.
Don't neglect to keep flies from him.
Don't allow him to go a whole day without a bowel movement.
Don't neglect to weigh him regularly.
Don't allow him to be kissed on the mouth. He is not strong enough to fight their germs.
Don't fail to keep hands and feet warm and dry.
Don't let him lie in a wet diaper or clothing.
Don't walk the floor with him.
Don't forget it is more important to keep his hands clean than his feet.
Don't forget to let him take his own time in learning to walk.
Don't fail to take him to his physician at least every month for examination and advice.
Don't put off telling the doctor if he does not get along—do not follow every body's suggestions.
If the above rules are carried out faithfully, the infant mortality will be greatly reduced.

CHARGES BLOW ON JAW-DIVORCE

Seeks Separation From O. W. Greiner, Solar Employee

Alleged refusal of Otto William Greiner, 640 S. Metcalf-st., to provide common necessities of life and medical attention, coupled with a blow on the jaw, drove Mrs. Hallie Lauretta Greiner to seek relief in the courts, she avers, in a petition for divorce filed in common pleas court, Wednesday. They were married in Beaverdam in 1915, and separated recently, after Greiner had flogged her for the count of ten, the plaintiff relates in her petition. She also charges that Greiner called her names, besides failing to provide her with food, clothing and medical attention. Greiner is employed at the Solar refinery, according to his wife. She says the firm owes him wages and asks the court to enjoin payment until her claim for alimony is satisfied.

Restoration of her former name, Hallie Lauretta Swaver, is also prayed for by the plaintiff.

FARMER COULD NOT WORK BUT 2 HOURS A DAY

"Tanlac Hit The Spot With Me And I Can Now Work From Sun Up To Sun Down," Declares Ohio Citizen—Gains 19 Pounds

"Before I got Tanlac I wasn't able to work over two hours a day, but now I can work from sun-up to sun-down," said Norman J. Wearstler, Ellet, Ohio, a prosperous farmer. "Three years ago, I had an attack of typhoid fever, and when I got up I found my whole system was badly out of order. My appetite was about gone and I couldn't eat enough to get my strength back. My stomach was all upset and I suffered a great deal from heartburn. I felt feverish, especially at bed time, and was never able to get a good night's rest. I was nervous and restless all the time, wasn't able to do any work except little odd jobs and was so weak that I just felt ready to give up."

"Well, sir, Tanlac seemed to hit the spot and I got better each day. Now, I have gained nineteen pounds in weight, feel stronger than I have in years, and I am a well man once more. My wife is also taking Tanlac and getting good results, too. It's a grand medicine."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists—Adv.

NEW POWER RATES SUBMITTED

Electric Company Revises Schedule in New Offer to City

ADJUSTMENT ANTICIPATED

Price Lower Than Existing Scale for Average Consumer

A schedule of electric light and power rates lower per kilowatt than the existing rates, has been submitted to the city commission by the Ohio Power Co.

As applied to the consumers, however, it figures higher than the prices now charged. It affects those using more than 100 kilowatts per month. Mayor Harold Cunningham said Wednesday:

Rates start at eight cents and decrease to three cents a kilowatt under the proposed schedule. Present rates are from 3.1-2 to 3.1-2 cents a kilowatt, less five per cent discount. Proposed rates are not.

Where the higher costs occur is in the steps on the sliding rate. The steps in the proposed ordinance are larger than those in the present agreement and this results in higher costs to larger consumers, it is pointed out.

Residence consumers will not be affected under the proposed schedule as the amount consumed is rarely more than 25 kilowatts and eight cents is the price fixed by both the old and the proposed rates.

Conferences are being held between city commissioners and large power users in the city in an effort to learn their attitude toward the proposed rates. Factories and business houses are being visited.

Following these conferences the city commission will meet with the representatives of the power company in an effort to reduce the size of the steps of the sliding scale. If this can be done, it is believed, the schedule will be adopted.

Under the proposed schedule electric ranges will become a reality in Lima homes, officials of the power company claim. Rates for this class of power consumption are claimed by them to be lower than any in the state at the present time.

EIGHT CENT RATE
For the first 10 kilowatts a rate of eight cents each will be charged. For all over this amount the rate will be three cents a kilowatt. This is on a par with that charged in cities near Niagara Falls, it is said.

Extensive improvements are planned by the American Gas and Electric Co., owners of Ohio Power Co., should the company be given a franchise in Lima.

Steel tower lines will be built from Fostoria to Lima and a substation constructed to care for the transmission and stepping down of the power. It will be transmitted at 200,000 volts.

Work on this project will be started immediately that the ordinance is approved, the company states in a letter to the city commission. It should be completed by April 1, 1923.

Installation of a 2,000 horse power turbine and generating equipment to provide extra power facilities and to provide light should a break occur on the line will also be started at once, they say.

If work can be started within the next few weeks this plant will be in operation by February 1, 1923, officials of the power company assert. They are willing to file a bond that all this work will be done.

RISING MERCURY IS PREDICTION

Having successfully survived the little cold spell of a day or so ago, Mr. Lima Beane is now preparing for another seige of a taller Mercury.

The weather man's latest is word to the effect that the temperature will operate on an ascending scale within the next few days. All of which means that the purchases made by suffering Limatians, who a week ago, were unable to stand the oppressive heat, will not be wasted.

Electric fans will come again to their reign of popularity, it is predicted. A light breeze experienced Wednesday offset the effects of a bright sun.

Guests Sneak Thru Window; Clerk Chases

Follows in Auto, Then Train; Meets 'Em in Lima

A little thing like two flat auto tires did not deter J. Blue, Dayton hotel clerk, in a race against time, Wednesday, to overhaul a pair whom he alleges beat a $38 board bill.

Getting as far as Sidney in a Stutz speed car, the tires blew out in quick succession, he related. Rather than wait for repairs, he caught a northbound B. & O. train and arrived here in time to meet with Officer Tom Lawlor, at 9:50 a. m. Western Ohio car, 20 minutes late.

P. N. North, 40, Rochester, N. Y., and wife were taken into custody and held a short time pending arrangements to return them to Dayton.

According to Blue the pair quietly lifted a window opening on a fire escape and sneaked away as the chandelier was announcing daybreak. Blue said he happened by the open window, saw the door of his late guests' room ajar and jumped to the task of heading them off.

They threw him off the track by making inquiries at the Big Four railway office, but were soon traced to the traction station.

SEVEN FINED BY JACKSON FOR VIOLATING TRAFFIC RULES; ONE INTOXICATED

Chan Hulbert, 26, No. 6 Rowlands Row, drew the now famous Jacksona antidote for attempting to pilot an auto while under the influence of liquor, when he pleaded guilty, Wednesday, to driving on S. Main-st while intoxicated.

Judge Emmett J. Jackson pronounced a fine of $50, ten days in the county jail and a 60-day suspension of his license.

L. S. Hoffman, 15 Terrace Court, was fined $10 for speeding.

James Carlo, Ottawa-av., drew $5 for fast and reckless driving and failure to have a cut-out.

Albert Dorsey, Ft. Wayne; B. S. Denchett, 664 S. Elizabeth-st.; W. H. Hubble, 1202 S. Central-av. and A. M. Martin, 910 S. Main-st each got $5 for violating parking technique.

TWO MEN AND WOMAN ORDERED OUT OF TOWN

Two men and a woman characterized by police as undesirable, were ordered out of the city Wednesday. They are James Evans, 18, and George Roush, 18, Pontiac, Michigan and Florence McClure, 22, whose home is said to be in Van Wert.

The trio was arrested Tuesday night. The woman was the principal witness in the trial of L. S. Reppert, found guilty last week of having liquor in the Elt Brentinger cafe, N. Central-av. She was there the night of May 31 when police made a visit, it is said.

REFUSES TO PUT BLAME ON WOMAN, WINS 5 YEARS

CINCINNATI — Jesse England, third of the convicted Nash Company payroll bandits, won five years of leniency today by pleading guilty and refusing to blame the robbery on a woman, cashier in the place, as his two confederates did in their trials. England was sentenced to 10 years in prison.

"You save five years for saving the country, the cost of a trial, and for refusing to hide behind a woman's skirts," said Judge Roteinger in sentencing England. The robbers obtained $5,000.

TWO GO ON TRIAL FOR CRABBE ACT VIOLATION

TREATY MEN SEE VICTORY

Farmers' Union Appeals to Government for Protection

DUBLIN — (Associated Press) — Leaders of the pro-treaty party manifest increasing confidence in the outcome of Friday's parliamentary elections and predict some surprises for the anti-t, claiming among other things that Erskine Childers and Mary MacSwiney are certain to lose their seats.

Many complaints of intimidation in districts where independent candidates are standing for election are being circulated. The Farmers' union continues to protest at interference with its candidates, especially in Tipperary, Waterford and Kilkenny and has appealed to the provisional government for protection.

RAID ON WHISKERS
The raid on Rarrel Figgis' Whiskers, notwithstanding the comic side of the incident, has excited great indignation and it is maintained that this alone will suffice to bring many of his political opponents to his side and thus secure his election.

Mr. Figgis' adhesion to the treaty marked him for especial hostility and his friends only lately had advised him to shave clean so as to avert a possible outrage, but he scorned to comply with their suggestion. Even now he will not be compelled to resort to the razor as enough of his beard was left after the raid for a barber to trim into symmetry.

ELECTION FORECAST
The political correspondent of the Freeman's Journal which favors the treaty, writes:

"To all outward appearances the general election of 1922 bids fair to be the least eventful in the political history of Ireland. The Labor party organizers show a pretty good reason for claiming they will return all their candidates in Dublin. Among the other independent candidates, the lord mayor of Dublin is said to be a likely easy winner in mid-Dublin, his supporters claiming he will head the poll.

"On the whole it is regarded as certain that several of the panel candidates will be displaced. The general view here is that the anti-treatyites will suffer such losses as the panel may sustain."

BANKRUPTS' CREDITORS TO MEET WITH GRINDLE

The object of the meeting is to appoint a trustee in each case, and allow creditors to present and prove their claims.

MEN AND MATTERS

Condition of Charles H. Shappell, proprietor of the Shappell Oil Products company, N. West-st. road, who is at St. Rita's hospital, suffering from heart trouble, was somewhat improved Wednesday, according to an announcement from the hospital.

CHIEF SUSPENDED
AKRON — William Poalson, chief of the police department of Kenmore, suburb of Akron, has been suspended for 30 days following investigation of charges made by John Rise, wealthy Doylestown resident, that Poalson abused and mistreated him.

OPERATE ON CHILD

FINED FOR CUSSING
Donald Culver, 28, S. Main-st., pleaded guilty to disorderly conduct before Judge Emmett J. Jackson in criminal court Wednesday and was fined $10. He is alleged to have used profane language before women on Eighth-st., who complained to Manager C. A. Bingham. Officer Tom Lawlor investigated and filed the affidavit. The offense is said to have been committed June 7.

PEOPLE GET "RESTLESS"

HEARING IS AIDED BY WOMEN

Auditorium Acoustics Improved Through Their Apparel

MEN ABSORB LESS SOUND

Explained by Professor of University of Illinois

CHICAGO — (Associated Press) — Women's modes have a direct effect on auditorium acoustics, according to Prof. F. R. Watson of the University of Illinois. "Speakers and singers can be heard more easily when their audience is composed chiefly of women than when it is preponderantly masculine," he said. "This is because women, as experiments have shown, absorb more sound than men, owing to the clothing worn."

Prof. Watson, who analyzed the acoustic properties of the Municipal Pier here, and whose recommendations for improvements were adopted by the city authorities, has devised an instrument that simplifies acoustic analysis. It is an arc-light reflector, which sends its blinding light in a beam of light to inaccessible ceiling surfaces to determine the presence and paths of any sound.

SOUND MEASUREMENT
As the sounds and the light take the same path, the light indicates the point in the ceiling surface where the sound strikes, and the angle of sound reflection is then mathematically computed.

A standard organ pipe is blown at the time taken for the sound to go out is measured with a stopwatch.

The usual trouble in an auditorium, said Prof. Watson, results from the fact that the walls do not absorb sound to any great extent, and consequently the word uttered by the speaker takes a long time to die out. In the meantime other words are spoken, and the audience becomes confused with the sound of the first words. In some cases curved walls produce echoes and concentrate the sound in unexpected ways. Sound-absorbing materials are the usual corrective; cushions in the seats are quite efficient, but in some cases hair felt should be placed in the walls. The amount of felt needed is readily calculated from the acoustic properties of the room.

HARROD PLANS RETURN TO PIONEER DAYS, FOR SUNDAY PROGRAM ONLY

Harrod days will be lived over again at Harrod on Sunday, June 15.

At that time all the customs in vogue 50 years ago will prevail in the village church and Sunday school. Modern fads and fancies will be forgotten.

J. L. B. Leutherman, for many years mayor of the village, has been selected to teach the Sunday school, which was conducted three score years ago. The services will begin at 9:15 a. m. Walter Wetherill, Lima, who has been engaged to teach the pioneer class, members of which will all be more than 60 years of age, at the evening at 7 o'clock Wetherill will talk to the children and conduct a song service. Rev. Leutherman will deliver a sermon characteristic of pioneer days. J. L. B. Leutherman is chairman of the day. All services will be held in the Christian church.

LIFE ON RHINE DRAWS DELPHOS BOY INTO THREE MORE YEARS OF SERVICE

Mysterious disappearance of R. Compton, Delphos boy living in Germany with the American Army of Occupation and who was expected to return to the United States, has been cleared up. Compton's enlistment term expired in April and he notified William Point, Delphos, that he would return to the United States immediately. Weeks passed and he was neither seen nor heard from. Investigation at the office of the Assistant General disclosed that life on the Rhine had proved to be appealing to Compton and that he had signed up for another three years. He is a member of the Eighth Infantry.

WHAT MAKES CRYSTAL DETECTOR "DETECT" RADIO?

By PAUL F. GODLEY
America's Foremost Radio Authority
"Unilateral conductivity." What is it?

It is the secret of the crystal set. It is the property that makes of any substance a "detector" of radio signals.

Certain minerals, and a few other materials, possess the characteristics which make them good conductors for current passed through them in one direction only. For example, a piece of carborundum may show a resistance of only two or three ohms to a certain current. When the current is reversed, the resistance to its flow is several hundred, and in some instances, several thousand ohms.

When substances possessing these characteristics are placed in a circuit where an alternating current is flowing, pulses of one polarity pass with ease, while those of the other are wasted and lost. The substance thus becomes known as a "rectifier," since it "rectifies" the alternating current, leaving in its stead, a pulsating, unidirectional current.

HOOK-UP OF CRYSTAL SET

NEED OF RECTIFIERS
The telephone receivers used in radio work are essentially direct current machines, thus the necessity for a rectifier—or as they are always called—detector, in the radio receiver.

Some minerals used as detectors are so sensitive that the currents induced to the magnetic telephones are much larger than can be accounted for by one-half of the incoming signal currents alone. One explanation of this is that the wasted half of the current produces heat because of the resistance of the crystal. This heat is produced at the point of contact of a crystal with the "feeler" wire.

Under certain conditions when two unlike substances are in contact, the application of heat will produce a flow of electricity. A combination of two dissimilar substances for the production of electricity in this way is known as a "thermo couple."

Doubtless, some types of galena (lead ore) and one or two similar crystals not only show unilateral conductivity, but also act as thermal batteries, giving off a pulse of current each time as a result of other heat-producing pulses which pass through it.

ARRANGEMENT
It is important to arrange the crystal detector so that all of the energy which is collected in its circuit passes through it. This is accomplished by making sure that there is nothing connected across the detector which could act as a small condenser.

Small condensers are formed by a length of "twisted pair" conductors, or large metal surfaces which are closely adjacent to each other and used in the connection or construction of the crystal detector system, they will afford low resistance paths for the high frequency currents.

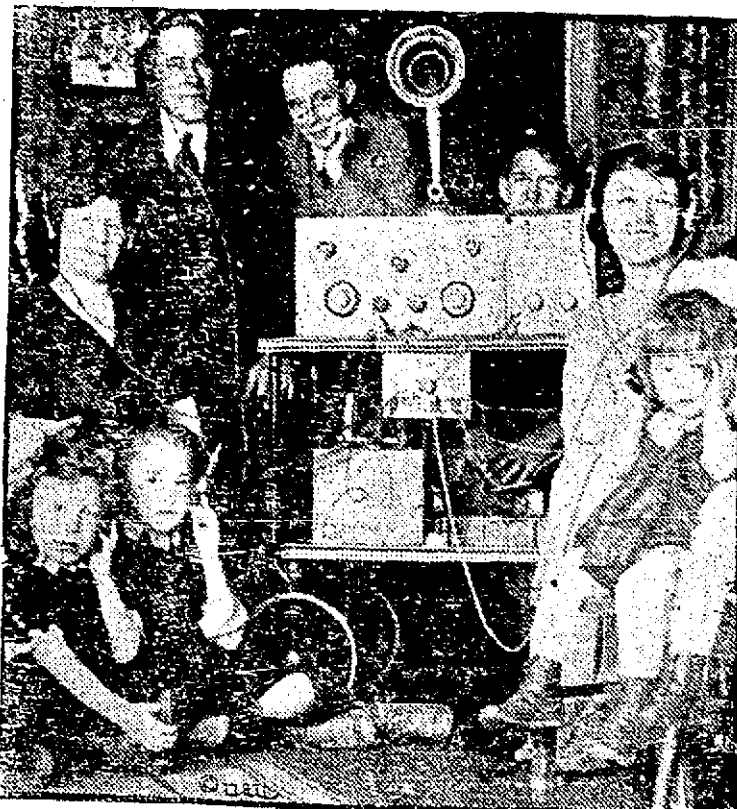

Currents flowing through these paths will never be rectified, and so far as the magnetic telephones are concerned, will serve no purpose.

In the accompanying "hook-up" of a crystal detector circuit, wires A and B should never be allowed to form a "pair." As such they would act as a small condenser. They should be single conductors, spaced somewhat.

RADIO PRIMER

CAT-WHISKER — A thin strand of wire attached to the crystal detector so as to form a light contact between the crystal and the incoming radio frequency current. It is usually a strand of copper wire coiled so as to fall lightly on the crystal.

RADIO "SERVED" ON TEA CART!

When guests come to the home of John A. Matoth, at Rahway, N. J., he "serves" them with a radio program from the set on his tea wagon. And when the loud speaker becomes too weak, each guest gets a head set with which to hear the incoming concerts. In the picture are the families of Matoth and Alfred Rinehart of Elizabeth, N. J., enjoying the tea-wagon concert. Matoth is standing behind the set.

FLAG DAY

THIS is Flag Day, when all America pays particular homage to the Stars and Stripes. It is the occasion of especial honor conferred on Old Glory, the emblem of Americanism, the symbol of patriotism, the starry banner that is representative of the best country on earth.

The flag which Betsy Ross fashioned, when this country was struggling for its freedom from a foreign yoke, still exists today. The design is practically the same that grew under the deft fingers of the patriotic woman, and also the number of stars in the field, representing the states of the Union, has increased, it is the same banner that had its inception in the mind of Betsy Ross and which was presented to General George Washington.

That flag was accepted by the people of America generally as the emblem of their citizenship, representative of a Republican form of government, which has endured wonderfully in the hearts and minds of men and women of the new world. It is an unsullied flag. It has never been defeated and has never been trailed in the dust in dishonor. It is enshrined so deeply in the hearts of the people that he who dares offer insult to it must pay.

Lima is observing Flag Day in an appropriate manner. The banner is displayed in many places, for the purpose of special homage, as a symbol of Americanism. Formal exercises in honor of the annual recurrence of the day will not come until Sunday, when the members of Lima Lodge of Elks, aided by the G. A. R., the Spanish-American War veterans, World war veterans and all other patriotic societies of the city, will unite in a demonstration at Faurot park. The program is inspired by the Lodge of Elks, which annually sets aside a day somewhere near Flag Day—June 14—to honor the Star Spangled Banner, loyalty to which is one of the foundation stones of the great order.

The exercises arranged for Sunday will afford all citizens the opportunity to participate. The devotion that is due the flag of the greatest nation on earth will be manifested in an appropriate manner.

In the dark days of the American revolution, when freedom of the people was in the balance, it was Old Glory that inspired the soldiers to new courage and greater hope. It cheered the barfoot soldiers in the snows of Valley Forge. Its folds fired with zeal the men who fought in 1861-5 for the preservation of the Union and it urged forward into battle the boys of 1898 in the Spanish war. In 1917-18, overseas, our khaki-clad boys fought valiantly under its starry folds.

No honor that can be paid to it in time of peace is too great.

BURYING MISTAKES

PICTURE a funeral passing your house with 38,000 hearses, each hearse containing an American business firm.

That gives you an accurate idea of the number of business failures since prices began to tumble in May, 1920.

But all is not gloom.

Standing thoughtfully on the curbstones, watching their deceased brethren going to Dun & Bradstreet's cemetery, are nearly 2,000,000 business organizations that have weathered the storm without sinking.

In two years of very severe depression, only one business in 53 has failed.

In a flash this illustrates the great underlying strength of our business organization, the Gibraltar that cannot be toppled by any storm.

As usual, of course, attention centers on the ships that sink. Ships that weather the storm are ignored. Thus the financial ocean, like the Seven Seas, gets a worse reputation than it really deserves.

VIEWING HIS FIRST GIRAFFE AS THE RURAL GENT SAID UP

In May, only 1960 failures. Many will short and wonder why the "only."

If they turn back four months, they find 2723 failures in January.

Steadily the storm subsides. Observing this, young blood desires to put to sea—to try its hand. So, in May, 954 new companies were incorporated in the principal states, with capital of $100,000 or more apiece. Thousands of smaller ones also ventured forth. They are the rowboats.

How much did they fail for? That is the important question. Failures, during the depression that now is nearing its end, have had total liabilities or debts at a rate of about $600,000,000 a year.

Assets have averaged enough to pay about 50 cents on $1.

The total or net loss, due to failures, has been running around $300,000,000 a year—or about $3 a year for each American. That, after all, is not such a big price to pay for getting out of the woods.

Me thinks I hear rumblings of a referendum day in November. How did the city get by in the old days, and the expenses no greater in this day. Common Sense Ways to Keep Well

EMERGENCIES

By DR. R. H. BISHOP

No one should go camping without some knowledge of emergency treatment for accidents. A little Red Cross first aid book is a mighty handy thing to have when somebody breaks a leg, sprains an ankle, suffers sunstroke or meets with some other physical misfortune.

An elementary knowledge of what to do, however, until the doctor comes, can be carried easily, safely and well right inside your own head.

One who has had a fall or any other accident resulting in shock shows the following symptoms: Pale, clammy skin, weak pulse and weak, gasping respiration or sighs. Place this patient on his back, cover him up, move him to the best place of shelter at once and, if possible, apply external heat by means of blankets, hot water bottles or hot bricks. But be careful not to burn him. Hot water, tea or coffee are useful stimulants.

In heat exhaustion the skin will be cold and clammy; other conditions much the same as in shock. The same treatment will be required. The body of a sun-stroke victim feels hot and dry to the touch. Clothes wet in the coldest water at hand should be applied to the head and body, especially along the spine, from the head downward. This treatment should be renewed frequently. Application to the head of cracked ice in a towel is good.

If an arm or leg is broken use splints composed of folded newspapers, pieces of board or heavy pasteboard. Bind into position with bandages or handkerchiefs. If the arm is broken, place it in a sling. A

ACIDS IN STOMACH CAUSE INDIGESTION

Create Gas, Sourness and Pain
How To Treat

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach, and not as some believe to a lack of digestive juices. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sours, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestants are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try taking aside all digestive aids and instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.—Adv

WORKERS SOUGHT BY EMPLOYERS

Market Growing Tight; Few Men Lack Jobs

ARE FORCED TO ADVERTISE

Building Programs, Construction Work Drain Supply

Lima's labor market, overflowing with idle workers three months ago, is growing tighter, contractors say. "Labor is harder to get than it was a few months ago," declared A. Probst, "but it isn't as scarce as it used to be. We are advertising for men today. It has been a long time since we had to do that."

Other contractors also say they are finding it more difficult to get men in a hurry. During the winter of 1930 to 1931, they say, they had to call for men would bring per cent 100 to their office. Today only a fourth of that many will show up, they say.

SHOULD WANT WORK

Many of them are not so willing to accept reduced wages in effect since the passing of war time boom as they were then. Some contractors assert there are men who could work, if they were to, but won't. That is the opinion of many labor shortage, they say. But all agree that men are not so easy to find and the army of jobless is being cut down.

HERE ARE THE REASONS:

Opening of building operation in and about Lima, that has put all kinds of workers from common laborers to skilled trades at work has been a long enforced vacation. Some of the $1,000,000 road program, which is just getting under way.

Basket weaving as a pastime for patients at the District Tuberculosis Hospital, southwest of the city, will be taught at once, following action taken Tuesday at the meeting of the Board of the hospital.

Teaching was held with Mrs. E. F. Egan, 411 S. Jameson-av.

It was decided to secure a teacher as soon as possible. The art will begin as soon as possible. Mrs. C. Egan was made chairman of the committee which will engage the teacher. Other members are Mrs. E. Egan, Mrs. P. Smith and Mrs. R. Egan.

Four large clocks will be purchased by the woman's board to be installed in the halls of the hospital. One for the picnic of the joint board of women operating the hospital was set for July 12 and will be held at the hospital grounds. Van Wert, Shelby, Mercer, Angeline and other committees support the hospital. Mrs. Russell Bennett, Hazel-av, was elected chairman of the picnic committee.

Van Wert board announced it would spend the amount of $110.50 from the annual tag day.

At the close of the meeting, Mrs. Egan served a delicious lunch, prepared by Mrs. J. W. Tacker and Mrs. O. J. Egan. Mrs. Bennett's mother, Mrs. J. Wheeler, Dayton, was a guest.

After a suit sent to cleaners is presumed to be destroyed by fire, and payment is made the owner, can the plant recover the money, if they find the suit was not burned up?

This is a legal tangle that Justice E. M. Botkin was asked to decide Wednesday in a case brought by the Faultless Dry Cleaners, against Mrs. F. A. Bryan, 816 Brice-av.

Mrs. Bryan sent a suit to the plant for cleaning or dyeing, as was deemed best she says. The place burned out. Her garment was reported to be burned up, and she received a check in payment, and purchased other clothing.

Then the suit was found, and the cleaners demanded a return of the money.

"They can have the suit, instead," she told Justice Botkin.

His Honor has taken the matter under advisement.

Wife's Plea for Husband Vain

Benigno Dies in Chair For Sly-Fanner Murders

COLUMBUS — (Associated Press) — A spirit of calmness, which has been maintained throughout the last hours of his life was characteristic of the passing of Dominie Benigno, 26, Cleveland Italian and father of two children, electrocuted at the Ohio penitentiary early today, for his part in the Sly-Fanner payroll robbery and subsequent double murder at Cleveland in December, 1920.

Benigno, the third member of the bandit gang to be executed, was pronounced dead at 12:08 a. m. by Prison Physician W. A. Whitman.

With apparent bravado, the Cleveland murderer entered the death chamber and without uttering a word, stalked to the chair, sat down and awaited his end.

His widow, two children and a brother, Tony, of Cleveland, were with him several hours last night, leaving the institution at 9 o'clock.

Early in the evening Mrs. Benigno carried her baby in her arms, with her three-year-old daughter trailing at her skirts made an unsuccessful plea for executive clemency to W. A. Bundy, executive clerk in Governor Davis' office. She declared her husband innocent and asked for clemency in behalf of the two children.

For his last meal Benigno asked for bread and wine. "Christ, an innocent man, went to His death with nothing but bread and wine," he said. "That's all I want. Only a guilty man would order any other kind of a meal."

Will Hays Starts Movie "Clean Up" at Studio

(By ESTHER WAGNER)

The pictures released at the start of the fall season will show definitely what effect the order of the "big boss" has had.

Lambert Hillyer is known as "the director who doubles for" doubles. A double, as you probably know, is one engaged to perform hazardous stunts for an actor.

Some of the things that Hillyer has done when doubles have failed: Jumping off a high cliff into a net, falling off a ship's upper bridge to the sea 60 feet below, falling backward off a moving train into a rocky gully, diving over the stern-wheel of a river steamer, riding a log down a lumber flume, standing on the wing of an airplane to film the fall of an aviator, and locking his motorcycle wheels with those of a speeding auto.

Hillyer is 28. Started in pictures when he was graduated from Drake College eight years ago. His mother is Lydia Knott, one of the best-known "screen mothers". He directed Bill Hart in 25 pictures, writing the continuity of 15 of them. His two latest pictures are "Skin-Deep" and "The Brotherhood of Hate."

In those letters Hays said, "These pictures now being made will come out soon, and they will be the proof of our honesty of purpose or our failure; they will be the proof either of our ability to correct our evils ourselves, or of our inability to run our own business."

Carl Laemmle, president of Universal, has ordered copies of the letter posted in that company's studios. Executives of other companies have passed the order along to producing units.

SUSIE SMART'S ADVICE

Dear Miss Smart: All a girl 15 years of age and have been going with a man several years older, occasionally, for a long time. I am not ashamed to say that I love him dearly. A short time ago we had a quarrel. It wasn't a real quarrel but we simply disagreed on something. When my friend left me that night he said that he would see me later. We passed on the street several days ago and he informed me that he was going to a small town to work and that he wouldn't be able to see me so often. I don't believe it at all. I am certain more. I have no intention of going away but that he doesn't want to see me so often because of our quarrel and instead of hurting my feelings has used this as an excuse. It is breaking my heart. What shall I do?

"PATTY" I don't exactly fair to the young man to doubt his word. "Patty," Certainly the only common thing for you to do is to accept the situation and assume that he is telling you the truth until you are positive that he has deceived you.

You do not say what your argument was about. It is possible that you may have been at fault and that the young man may have thought you unreasonable and consequently adopted this rather unfriendly attitude toward you. A respectful manner on your part will not help in holding the man's regard. Be cheerful and reasonable and I am confident your little love affair will not end "tragically."

Dear Miss Smart: I am inclined to be very fat for my age and I want to ask you what I can do to reduce.

A READER Walking and other forms of exercise help to reduce greatly. However a plain, sensible diet helps more. You cannot expect to reduce unless you are willing to eat the things that nourish without fattening and forego the foods which invariably make for an increase in weight. All fats, starches and sweets tend to add to the weight. Eat more green vegetables, lean meat, clear soup and graham bread.

Miss Phyllis Mae Hensler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Hensler, of N. Pierce-st., and Earl E. Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Jones, of South Bend, Ind., will be united in marriage Thursday afternoon at 1:30 at a very quiet ceremony at Market Street Presbyterian church. The Rev. Samuel Haecker, pastor of the church, will officiate. Miss Hensler will be attended by Miss Helen King, while John E. Reynolds, of Ada, will act as best man. The wedding music will be played by Miss Lucille Burkhart and Miss Esther Diehl will sing.

Mrs. Amelia Mercer, of W. Vine-st., leaves this week for Athens. She will visit her daughter, Miss Mildred Mercer, who will soon assume her duties as assistant librarian in the Carnegie Library of the Ohio University.

OUR FIRST YEAR

—BY A BRIDE—

JESSIE LANGDON SNUBS ME—BUT I TURN THE T

Before I was married, I never imagined there would be storms in our first year, or any other for that matter. But the lightning flashed below my horizon for most of our trip, and I was glad to get home again.

Bonny spent much time with me after our return. Her immediate interest was the management of a morning bridge party I was getting up for Jessie Langdon and other wives of men in the office.

Bonny said she came to help but I felt sure she stayed to hear me talk about Bart. They had agreed not to be engaged, she said she had urged an elopement, but Bart simply wouldn't.

Of course her heart was almost broken. She had found true love so completely satisfied. After Bart, as she had long ago hinted to me, she never could listen to any other man making love. When her father came home, maybe he could manage E. Her daddy could manage anybody.

Jack didn't approve of my morning bridge. I found that out too late—after I had invited my guests. Jack said we simply couldn't afford to keep up with the office crowd.

That speech proved to me Jack was pretty melancholy. In fact, he came home a little bluer each night—a little quieter. Not even chess amused him.

I didn't tell him that Jessie Langdon, after accepting my invitation, had decided to leave at once for the mountains. And after she withdrew, all the others were unable to accept.

To Jack, it would look only like a tempest in a teapot, but to me these cards of regret had a deep significance. I knew Jack was tremendously popular with the men at the office. And such being the case, it appeared I had failed to make a hit with the wives.

"Goodness! Isn't Jessie Langdon the little snob!" murmured our

CHAPTER IX THE DIRECTION FINDER

"Curse you were up to something! I knew it!" resented Vario as he faced Jack over the table at the Binnacle. "When I saw you drive up here you suddenly changed your tune. You ran to cover — to cover yourself!"

The waiter, Herman, sniveled.
His face was livid. He bowed and left Vario, who took hold of him, for all the world like a drunken man catching at a straw.

"Furthermore, I believe you saw that vital in this man's hand — perhaps you palmed it — and a little sleight of hand. You intend to call it a 'come you!'"

Ruth was speechless. She leaned over the table, half standing, an almost blue figure in blue. Her exposed face had sent a blaze of color to her cheeks. Her golden hair framed a face in a mass of gold that shined brightly over her whole countenance. Ruth was a very desirable girl and her chief charm was that she did not seem to be thinking of it all the time.

Jack had been working himself up to an almost apoplectic rage as he gazed at the accusation at him.
He took a step forward in furious passion, then shot out his forefinger pointing at the teacup that had been before him.

"Would I — poison — myself!"
he menaced.
"Well settle that," came back from sharply. "I'll undertake to do this all and seal it — in the presence of you as witness. Then I'll take it to some reputable chemical laboratory for analysis. I could swear myself — but — well, in other words, well impound this evidence and someone else determines what it is."

The waiter scurried about getting the water. Vario turned to Ruth with a courteous "Miss Walden —
I insist — for your own safety
I'll drive you back to the Club.
I'll telephone and postpone the appointment I had at the Seaville Station. No — it can easily go over tomorrow. Your mother cannot and much more. She needs you so much. She has been thru so much anguish in the last two days."

Jack looked from Vario at Jack and gazed intently. Was it the quickest way to get out danger is often the most obvious.
Thank you, Professor. It's very kind of you to take such an interest.

He left Curtis standing, still frozen with rage, beside his motor.
Vario's car disappeared. Jack went into his own and shot down South Shore road toward a short cross island highway.
The Walden's surprise was great as the saw Vario with Ruth.
"What's Jack Curtis?" she exclaimed.

A moment of silence that followed was eloquent. "Oh, Ruth, any more trouble?"
Ruth was out of the car, eager to hear her mother's confidence.
"Nothing, nothing much. Vario was a little off in the head
— but Professor Vario came in — and —"

Ms. Walden beamed her approval of Vario's help. Vario exchanged a keen glance with Ruth understood that she chose to trust there were more facts behind and acquiescent.
"Well let me know the — the —" Ruth asked.

Vario promised and with a forced cheerful remark Ruth turned up the stairs to her room for dinner.

Meanwhile, on the opposite porch of the Club which was otherwise empty, Vario, only a few moments before had tucked her arm nervously under Garrick's and drawn him into the privacy of the glassed-in winter solarium.

"You may come, too, Dick," she nodded back to him. "There — please shut the door." She glanced at Garrick, half confidently, half fearful of him. "I've been so afraid — ever since I found out how the walls might have ears!"

Dick closed it and Garrick placed a chair for Vario who sank into it rigidly, turned and looking up at his face as he stood with his hands still on the back of the chair.

There was something seething in her mind and Garrick was just about to make some reassuring remark that would relieve the tension and open the floodgates of her heart. Vario, all animation, now that she had taken this step, did not wait to give him a chance.

"It's about Glenn," she cried tensely, bringing her two hands together. "You know all about the inner Circle — and Georges. Well, Glenn was our treasurer when we first started — is yet, in a way, I suppose. Oh, it may have been all right when we started. It was fun and all that. It was smart. But — one thing led to another — — Guy. Oh, get him out of it all — get him out of it —"

Vario flushed, had risen from the chair and was standing with hands extended, pleading before Garrick.
As she finished there was a little tremble in her voice and she turned quickly to dab away a tear that had gathered in each eye. Garrick took her arms and gently forced her back into the chair. Vario pressed the tips of fingers of both hands on her flushed forehead.

"This Velvet Gang, as the police call it," Garrick exaggerated a bit for effect.
Vario looked up quickly, a frightened stare on her face. But she said nothing.

"I don't want to drag all you foolish young folks into anything. I
—"

The waiter scurried about getting
the water. Vario turned to Ruth with surprised at the naive stare in return nor by the firm silence. He had seen too many women on the witness stand. Vario had made up her mind to talk — but not too much. He decided it was best to let it go at that; not to try any social third degree. She would come around. They agreed not for the present to be seen together.

It was not three minutes later when Dick received another shock.
Mrs. Walden had hastened to pour out the news of the Binnacle episode, as far as she knew it, to Garrick.

"I'm going to call up Ruth on the house phone," exclaimed Dick violently as he and Garrick paced down the porch alone.

"No — don't. It won't do a bit of good. You'll do harm, in your present mood. Don't be so worried over Ruth. Dick. Take it from me.
She'll come out all right. I think that little girl knows very well what she is doing."

"She does — eh? The deuce she does!"
Garrick was not disposed to argue.
"This thing has gone just about far enough, Dick," he considered energetically. "Now is the moment to gather. In earnest, take these robberies, first. Why — and by whom? Whatever her foolishness and love of adventure, Ruth just simply could not have been concerned in them. Now, start at the beginning. There's that girl's hat used in the Gerard robbery, the one I've got in the Club safe. Whose is that? I know what you're going to say. Rae Larue's. Say, you can, can you prove it? And if you can, that's a long way from connecting her with the hold-up."

"That devil, Jack Curtis!" ground out Dick. "They're two of a kind.
I'll bet if we could raid his room at the hotel, we'd get something — maybe a picture of Rae — with the hat.
I think that was his camera after all that you pinched."

"Curtis. Just what I was thinking.
Let's jump over there — get him right quick."

At the hotel they learned that Curtis had cleaned out everything that forenoon, had checked out,
and had disappeared.

Over the telephone Garrick called the Page place. Beth was not at home but her mother with considerable relief, replied: "Miss Larue-Miss Larue left rather hurriedly for the city this afternoon. I believe she expects her mother from the coast."

"Mrs. Walden said that Curtis had started down the South Shore road when Vario left. Ruth looked back and saw him."

Garrick was climbing in under the wheel when a blue streak shot along Main Street regardless of local law.
He jabbed at his screecher of a horn.
"It's Glenn." He waved and signaled. Glenn bore over to the curb a couple of hundred yards ahead. "Jump in, Dick."

"Where's the fire?" joked Garrick.
"Just going to see Vario — with Ruth."

"Say, Glenn — confidentially — there's no use keeping this under cover. I heard you say, in the Pink Room, you'd taken that Parr stuff to your own garage to protect Vario.
Are you the only one that has a key to that place? Now, play straight, Glenn. This is for your own good.
Did I ever do you a dirty trick — or Dick? What do people at the Club think of me? Do they trust me?"

Glenn threw away an almost fresh cigarette, lighted another, threw it away and stood foolishly with the burnt match in his hand. "That's the way, I am, Guy. He scowled.
"As nervous as hell. Half the time I don't know what I'm doing. Say — you'll be on the level, Guy. It's a cinch no one else will. I might as well make a clean breast of it
— yes, I gave a key to Rae Larue once. She begged it of me once to put her car up — and then —"

"All right, Glenn. I'll give you tonight. Going to see Ruth? Well, tell her not to do a thing without seeing me first."

Glenn departed a bit relieved at postponing the evil day of confession.

"Well, if Rae Larue had it, they all had it, anyone who wanted it," hastily reasoned Garrick. "That place is a cache for their stuff. I didn't want to ask for the key. I don't need it. Well, go there anyway. I'll get in. Come on out the city!"

Garrick and Dick were whirling down the turnpike, Dick with his eyes glued to the road back of them for motorcycle cops.

Locks were no impediment to Garrick. He had taken a course with his friend Houdini. While he couldn't get out of everything, he could get into nearly anything.

Glenn's garage was easy. As they closed the door, they looked about in amazement. It was indeed an "unbonded warehouse." There were cases enough to have meant a tidy little fortune. In one corner where they had been hastily dumped lay the product of the footing of the Parr cellar.

"Undisturbed. Too bulky," muttered Garrick. "But someone has been here."

"How do you know?"
Garrick pointed toward a crack of light. On one side of the garage was an auto pit for working on the under side of cars. A board covering was imperfectly pulled over it.
Thru the edge shone a light. Garrick wrenched the covering aside.

Their hiding place. Whoever was here must have been in a nervous hurry. I must get Glenn and the others some sort of immunity for what they didn't do. They don't deserve it — but they're just wise young fools." Garrick thought a moment. "You see, the net result of some of our new commandments has been to make various phases of lawbreaking fashionable, smart.
Only this is a bit extreme."

He moved over to the telephone.
It was working and he called the Astro Agency of private detectives to furnish a guard until the ringleader was caught and he was ready to make final disposition of the case.

Dick's alert eyes, as they were waiting, discovered a wireless set on a worktable in the rear. Out of the back window he could see the antenna from the garage to the house.
Mechanically he started tuning up.
The agency men were a long time in coming.

"Holy judas priest!" Dick was so startled he was pale. "Someone's broadcasting what they call news.
It — it can't be. It must be some crazy amateur." Ruth Walden, the heiress, has eloped with John Curtis!

Garrick seized the phones.
"Antic — perhaps, crazy, not!"
Garrick listened and continued.
"Did you ever stop to consider the radio as a means for slander? Talk

"There isn't? The devil there isn't. I can. I will!" exclaimed Dick. "If he keeps it up."

Everything he needed seemed there on the workbench. It was comparatively simple, a "loop" as it is known, copper wire wound eight times around a frame — our feet square. He hung it from the ceiling, free. He could turn it in any direction. He connected up the receiving set. Then he began turning the loop slowly.

"A directional receiver," explained Dick. "It must be orientated toward the hidden sender.
Really it's a radio compass."
By the time the Astra men arrived Dick had it pointed. Every few minutes a new message came.
They left the men in charge and climbed in the car. The direction had been east by a little south.

Across the bridge Dick set up his finder again. This time it was east by a little north. Over well known roads they scurried, now and then every few miles setting up the finder and modifying their course.

It was a glorious night, a night
so clear and lovely you could see the colors of the flowers in the garden.
There were faint stirrings and rust-
lings everywhere — night sounds, people call them. Some say, it's the sleepy birds, some say it's the wind.
But it's really the fairies that come from the moon.

Over in the forest the trees rustled and swished softly. That was the Tree-Fairies who hop from branch
to branch looking out for the birds,
their babies and nests.

Up in the air was the faintest
hum — the wings of the Cloud
Fairies.

Here and there one could hear a faint chirp — the Chimpney Fairies on the chimney-tops calling to one another.

And there! That sounded like a happy laugh. One of the happy Dream Fairies, of which Wink was one.

Wink slid down his moon-beam
to the roof of Tommy Brown's house
and climbed up to the top of the chimney. He expected to find Black

Cap there. Black Cap said he'd be sure to see that none of Eena Meena's bad fairies with dreadful dreams could get down first.

But Black Cap was not there! It was the first time the little Chimney
Fairy had failed him.

"Oh, well," said Wink. "I'll go
down to Tommy's room any way.
I do want Tommy to have this nice
dream about a pony on his birthday.
And I want to put an idea into his daddy's head. I've a dream for him,

"Oh, ho! You have, have you!"
said a voice. It was Comet-Legs!
He had just come from Eena Meena and he had a dream about Wink

moon-beam to the earth.

It was a glorious night, a night
so clear and lovely you could see the colors of the flowers in the garden.
There were faint stirrings and rust-
lings everywhere — night sounds,
people call them. Some say, it's the sleepy birds, some say it's the wind.
But it's really the fairies that
come from the moon.

Over in the forest the trees rustled
and swished softly. That was the Tree-Fairies who hop from branch
to branch looking out for the birds,
their babies and nests.

Up in the air was the faintest
hum — the wings of the Cloud
Fairies.

Here and there one could hear a faint chirp — the Chimpney Fairies on the chimney-tops calling to one another.

And there! That sounded like a happy laugh. One of the happy Dream Fairies, of which Wink was
one.

Wink slid down his moon-beam
to the roof of Tommy Brown's house
and climbed up to the top of the chimney. He expected to find Black

Cap there. Black Cap said he'd be sure to see that none of Eena
Meena's bad fairies with dreadful
dreams could get down first.

But Black Cap was not there! It was the first time the little Chimney
Fairy had failed him.

"Oh, well," said Wink. "I'll go
down to Tommy's room any way.
I do want Tommy to have this nice
dream about a pony on his birthday.
And I want to put an idea into his daddy's head. I've a dream for him, too!"

"Oh, ho! You have, have you!"
said a voice. It was Comet-Legs!

Helping the Student Find Himself

To prevent the groping and floundering that often follows the sudden transition from student life to the responsibilities of business life, Ohio Wesleyan has adopted a definite policy of vocational guidance.

The dean or professor with whom the student has been so closely associated during the most important years of life preparation, exerts a powerful influence in shaping the future of that student.

Consultation with deans and professors for vocational guidance is supplemented with business lectures to undergraduates by Ohio Wesleyan Alumni and other prominent business men.

Ohio Wesleyan gives studied attention to the mind, the heart, the body and the future of every student within her walls—a well balanced training that develops youths of promise into men and women of prominence.

GIRLS BASEBALL TEAM TO PLAY LIMA INDEPENDENTS JUNE 25

A LL kinds of baseball curiosities will be served up by the management of the Lima Independents for those who worship at Murphy-st. park. Colored men and long-haired hermits have been on the schedule for several weeks and now it's girls.

Yes, sir, girls. They're the Western Bloomer Girls club, travelling out of Chicago, now on a barnstorming trip throughout the entire U. S. A. deal for their appearance here June 25 was closed Tuesday night by the local management. Charles E. Baker, manager, was here in person and presented a thousand and one convincing arguments why the girls baseball chorus should attract the largest crowd that ever crammed the old baseball barracks.

The Page Dairys of Toledo were set down for that date, but the game cancelled. They will be booked for a later date.

Can they play ball? If records set down in black and white on newspaper are a criterion the female tossers will wallop the Independents. With the assistance of three or four men players their chief diversion is going out and beating the best semi-pro clubs and occasionally thumping a league organization.

Danville, Illinois, in the Three-I league was beaten by them and several Southern league teams felt the sting of defeat at their hands this season.

The line-up here will probably include six girls and three men, one of the latter, Anderson, formerly with the Kansas City American Association team, pitching when the grind becomes too strenuous for the girl twirlers, Kate Becker and Celia Doran. The men are carried to make opponents step out if they want to win.

Mabel Bohle, the only lady catcher in the world, and Lee Buckley, formerly of the minor leagues, do the regular retrieving. Others on the team are Anna McCann, 2b; Anna Brennan, lf; Cecelia Burk, rf, a shortstop named Harrison and Frazier, 3b.

Baker lays claim to a record of 105 wins and 51 defeats in 1919 and 112 victories to 26 games lost in 1920.

Fans will see feature attractions on three successive Sundays. Next Sunday the Colored Glants of Ft. Wayne will be here, then the girls June 25 and July 2 the House of David club, Benton Harbor, Michigan, oversized beards 'everything will carry at Murphy-st.

Braves On Rampage

NEW YORK — The Braves may not duplicate this year their remarkable achievement of 1914 when they fought their way from the cellar to the top, won the pennant and trimmed the Athletics four straight in the world series, at right now they are staging a drive reminiscent of that feat and upsetting championship contenders right and left.

Hank Gowdy, hero of the 1914 champions and the team's only playing survivor of that outfit, was a hero again yesterday when the Braves humbled the Pirates for the third time in four games, 8 to 5. The result gave Boston a record of nine victories out of the eleven of four games with the leading three clubs of the league, including three out of four from St. Louis and three straight from the Giants. The Braves also made a clean sweep of the four games with the Cardinals in the recent western invasion and also still in seventh place are only three games from the first division.

Champion Coacher

BILLY DISCH

WILLIAM J. "BILLY" DISCH, has just piloted the University of Texas Longhorns to their eleventh consecutive southwestern baseball championship under his coaching.

Disch is an old Texas League baseball player, and has turned out many a university youngster to the leagues. Bill Falk of the Chicago White Sox is one of his products. Bill Killmer of the Chicago Cubs was one of his pupils.

FINNISH COACH LAUDS THE ABILITY OF AMERICAN FIELD ATHLETES

CAMBRIDGE, Mass.—That Americans will lead the world in throwing the javelin and the discus, just as they do in other athletic events, is the firm belief of Janko Mikkola, Finnish javelin champion and discus thrower, newly appointed coach in these sports at Harvard.

He is preparing the Crimson athletes in these events for coming intercollegiate games. The champion is firm in his belief that there is no class of athletes who learn more quickly than Americans.

read by all followers of this Olympic event.

"It is the general opinion," he says, "that the long, lanky athlete makes the best javelin thrower. But this is not absolutely true. Anyone can throw the spear."

"Of course, Myra, who won the Olympic event at Antwerp in 1920, is a big fellow, and he threw the javelin 217 feet."

"Still, as a rule, give me the short, sturdy athlete."

"Javelin throwing is more of a scientific event than one of main strength. Of course, when a man huris the spear more than 200 feet he has to have science and strength both, but as a rule it is the scientific thrower who wins the event."

Noted Nag Returns

(BY BOB DORMAN)

NEW YORK — Twice a mother the Belle of Bryn Mawr, famous steeplechase mare of several years past, has returned to the track and in the International Steeplechase Handicap equaled the track record for the event.

Twice, before she became a dam, she had won the feature, but had never approached the record.

Her owner, J. Temple Gwathney, Virginia sportsman and breeder, contends that a mare should be taught to race as a yearling, taught to jump while still young, retired to the stud, rear offspring, and then return to the game.

were an impossibility on account of her runaway tactics.

At the height of her glory she dropped from sight.

SETTLED DOWN? Gwathney was working out his theory.

He sent her to his Canterbury Farm in Virginia, where she bore two good colts and was mated this spring.

Then she was put in training for a summer's campaign on the tracks. She was found to have completely settled down. Her wildness had left her, but her speed and jumping ability seemed improved.

To proof came with the winning of the International Steeplechase Handicap.

COLLEGIANS WILL PLAY WITH LIMA

Close of the collegiate season will give the Lima Independents an opportunity to pick up several university diamond stars who will be home shortly. Two that the management has eyes on are Olin Smith, Ohio Wesleyan crack fielder and Babe Ruth of the Ohio conference who helped Delaware pull down the honors of the circuit, and Bible, Grove City, Pennsylvania, star.

Manager Bernie Halloran announced both will be given a fling with the team.

REDS LOSE FOURTH

The Giants, meanwhile outslug Cincinnati for their fourth straight from the Reds, 7-5 and had a margin of four games over the Pirates with whom they opened an important series today.

Two other first division clubs in the National also fell by the wayside, Philadelphia's International league recruit Singleton blanking St. Louis while his mates clubbed out 16 hits for 14 runs off four Cardinal hurlers, and Brooklyn bowing before the Cubs and Alexander's pitching prowess, 8-3.

WESLEYAN COPS

By defeating Denison 5 to 3, Ohio Wesleyan university clinched the Ohio conference baseball championship, finishing the season with seven wins out of eight starts. Gold baseball given only to championship teams were awarded to all letter men on the team immediately after the game.

Olin Smith, Lima, contributed to the victory with a timely single.

YOUTH SHOWS CHAMPS

THE University of California won the intercollegiate championship mainly thru strength of their men in the 21 events.

In the records of these young men who carried back the glittering titles in "nothing" to brag when it comes to the little and boys of the Sunbelt Land.

Especially in Chicago, Clarence, son of the Oxnard High School, Barbara, Cal., pushed the 20-foot shot for a goal of 56 feet. It was three inches farther than Mack's record of 10 years' standing.

KIWANIS JUMP INTO FIRST

Rotary and Kiwanis played a real ball game in the first business men's league clash of the week yesterday afternoon, the latter, due mainly to Hoffman's superb pitching, applying the whitewash, 3 to 0.

Waller's pitching for the Rotas was almost as good, but was unfortunate in that the Kiwanis bingles came at opportune moments. Each team got three hits, two of the Rotas bingles being bagged by Thompson and Coon and a pair of the Kiwanis bingles tripling by Goodrick and Schenk.

WILLS FORCING TITLE BOUT

(By HENRY L. FARRELL)

NEW YORK — Harry Wills, big negro heavy, is going to challenge Jack Dempsey and send along some money to show he's in earnest.

Wills has reached the point where ring ethics, while they may hold him up a model among fighters, do not feed the family.

On the grounds that he did not want to annoy or embarrass the champion while he was making the acquaintance of royalty, Wills refrained from coming right out and demanding a nice scoldable fight for the title. Other things helped the big colored fellow maintain a strange silence when another boxer in his position would have been using the radio. Jack Kearns, according to the wise ones, promised Wills a fight when they returned from Europe and then ran out when everything had been fixed for it.

PIRATES PUT ONE OVER BIG 11

The second game of the Vacation league schedule was played at the College Field yesterday and the Pirates emerged victors 11-2. Their victims were the Big 11. The first part of the game was nip and tuck. In the first three innings the losers were leading 2-1, but the rookies which had to play in the absence of regular players could not stand the gaff and the game was soon on ice.

The pitching was good, both teams having pitchers of the same caliber but the Pirate hurler had the better support and consequently won the game. If the Indians enter the League they will play the Cubs today altho it is not known definitely whether or not they will get in.

The Shamrocks lost to the Triangles in the first game 24-10.
